

Event Branding & Customization

The event landing page is the entrance to your event. It contains the event title and date, a registration form and login field (for people already registered), and descriptive text, speaker headshots, and other images or videos that you choose to add.

When attendees register and sign in to the event, they are taken to the event window.

Depending on your webcast, the event window contains a video player where presenters appear on camera and uploaded videos are played; tabs for slides, surveys, and other content; and sidebar tabs for Q&A and audience chat.

There are so many options for customizing the appearance of your event and adding your brand that it can be difficult to know where to begin. One way is to start at the top of the page and work your way down. Set the visuals first and then build out the web content for your attendees:

- Banner and logos
- Registration layouts (one- and two-column layouts set the structure landing page)
- Colors and backgrounds (define your look)
- Landing page content (text, images, speaker headshots, footer)
- Sponsor logos on the event window

Note: This article explains event branding and customization and provides links to detailed instructions. For additional information and tips, see Branding Best Practices.

Banner and logos

The banner area is displayed at the top of the landing page and event window. It spans the entire width of the browser window. You can add logos and customize the color that displays behind them. Logos can be your organization's logos or images related to the event. These images are anchored to the left and right sides of the registration page and event window.

To hide the banner, do not upload banner logos.

Registration layouts

The layout of the landing page determines the placement of the registration form and landing page content. There are two styles:

1. Bar layouts feature the event title and date prominently in colored bars across the landing page.
2. Open layouts incorporate the event title and date in the body of the landing page.

To select a layout:

Go to the Player & Branding tab. Open Advanced Branding and select a Registration Layout.

The following example shows the same event styled with a bar layout (left) and open layout (right).

The following table explains the available layouts.

Layout	Description	Preview
Bar layouts

Layout	Description	Preview
One Column	A single column with landing page content first, followed by the registration form.
Two Column	Landing page content on the left and the registration form on the right.
Popup Registration	Landing page content with a Register Now button that opens the form in a small window.
Open layouts

Colors and backgrounds

Use colors and background images to brand the look of the event landing page and event window. To set colors, go to the Player & Branding tab and open Advanced Branding. The Site Branding Options section lists page elements you can color.

Player container	The content area that holds the banner, video player, slides and other content tabs, and chat and Q&amp;A tabs. Set the player container to white to group all the blocks or set to transparent to show the background color or background image. See Event player container and window backgrounds	Event window

Landing page content

All registration layouts include a dedicated space for additional content. By default, this space - called the landing text - is empty. You can edit it and include additional event information, images, speaker headshots, links, and videos on your registration page. You can also add your own custom code or use auto-fields to include the event title, date, duration, or reminder buttons on the page.

Finally, let your attendees spread the word about an event on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Facebook, and then track registrations that originate from their posts.

Sponsor logos on the event window

You can display logos of event sponsors and other call-to-action images during the event. The logos are included in the lower right corner of the event window, above the footer.

You can include as many sponsor logos as you like. You can set the display order of the logos, the amount of time each logo is displayed, and include a link so that when attendees click on the logo, they're taken to the sponsor's website.
